OHS Solutions has been a leader in training on Safety in Design for many years, having developed the course for Consult Australia and facilitated it across Australia for more than 8 years. We continually research health and safety issues in the industry to ensure ongoing relevance and currency for participants.

In addition, we have provided Safety in Design training and review services for Built, Pitt and Sherry, Maunsell, Opus International, URS, AECOM, Fyfe, Brown Consulting and Webb.

We have also conducted training and presented at conferences on road design for the Roads and Maritime Service and completed another project on health and safety with road designers for the department.

In 2014 Deborah Hammond delivered training for architects on Safety in Design as part of their Refuel program for Australian Institute of Architects. She also presented A Clinician's Guide to Influencing Design and Construction Outcomes in Health at AusBig Conference in August.

Our SID services include:

- Facilitation of CHAIR workshops and preparation of minutes
- Facilitation of SID training
- Review of SID procedures
- Creation of tailored SID presentations for conferences and industry bodies
